Not A Drop To Drink In North Randall

Yarborough Formidable

Barnes Talks of Race

Ben Barnes sees Ralph Yarborough, aging leader of Texas liberals, as a possible opponent and a formidable one in next year's race for the Democratic nomination for governor.

"The Yarborough name is magic in Texas," the lieutenant governor conceded. He then pointed out that Don Yarborough went into the runoff with Preston Smith the first time Smith ran for governor in 1968.

"He has always wanted to be governor," Barnes declared, of Ralph Yarborough. "I don't know what he's going to do and I don't think anyone knows what Yarborough will do. If he runs he will be a serious contender."

Yarborough was defeated last year by Lloyd Bentsen in a bid for re-election to the U.S. Senate. Bentsen defeated Yarborough in the primary in the spring and went on to beat George Bush of Houston last fall.

Barnes thinks Smith may not be a candidate for re-election. He said the governor's appointment of two long-time aides, Larry Teaver and Bob Bullock, to high state offices is strong indication that the present governor will not be in the race next year.

The lieutenant governor said he agonized a long time over his decision to run for governor. There had been speculation that he might run against John Tower for the U.S. Senate.

He said his decision was influenced largely by his strong conviction of the role that state and local government must play in serving the needs of the people if federal agencies are to be kept in their proper places.

"I was deeply concerned about the leadership of the state and my party," Barnes went on. "I just felt like I could do more for Texas as governor than as senator."

The lieutenant governor lashed the administration, especially the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

"Busing is one of the most absurd things the federal government has ever done," he declared.

He accused the federal government of tying up highway contract letting with red tape and bringing construction on roads to a near halt.

"We must have more leadership at the state level," he asserted.

Barnes promised to be a strong governor if he is elected.

"If the people want a governor that just spends his time kissing babies (and I like babies) then they don't want to vote for me," he declared promising to use all the legal tools inherent to the office to prevent further encroachment by big federal

Police Seek Dachshound

Canyon police are seeking a black female dachshound that bit an elementary school teacher Tuesday afternoon at Rex Reeves playground.

Mrs. Mary Ann Berry, physical education instructor, was biten around 1:45 p.m. Tuesday when she attempted to pick the animal up and remove it from the playground.

"I took a tetanus shot," Mrs. Berry declared. But she is unsure of what she might do if the dog is not found.

"I do know we need to find the dog immediately, because she must be watched for 10 days," she exclaimed.

The dog ran toward Conner Park after the incident, but police have not been able to locate her since.

"She had tags on, but I do not know how recent they were issued," Mrs. Berry continued.

Anyone sighting the black, female dachshound, please contact the Canyon police department.

Wet-Dry Issue Is Decided By Ballot

BY TROY MARTIN

More than the weather is dry in North Randall County.

A proposition to legalize sale of alcoholic beverages in Randall County Justice Precinct 4 went down to defeat by a margin of almost four to three in an election for which 46.9 percent of qualified voters turned out Wednesday.

The vote was 4,017 against and 3,279 for as 7,296 persons of a possible of 16, 778 cast ballots in the election.

Sole box to go for the proposition was the absentee box and this by a margin of only 17 votes. The absentee vote was 166 for and 149 against.

Fate of the liquor question was a decided almost by the time returns began coming in from six voting places shortly after 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Dorothy Meehan, who operates the Personality House on Western and who pushed the wet cause vigorously, waited in vain as the results sifted in.

The two biggest boxes, Ridgecrest and Coronado Schools, were last to come in and held the fate of the question.

The wets were again disappointed when Coronado favored the drys 1104 to 903 and Ridgecrest 1280 to 1252.

Mrs. Meehan said she was pleased with the turnout of voters. "We tried," she said. "At least we got more voters out than they did in Potter County. I'm proud of that."

Mrs. Meehan said she will move her business into Potter County as soon as she can locate a site and arrange for construction of a building.

"I believe in living where you've got a freedom of choice," she declared.

People opposed to the proposition also carried on a spirited campaign against it.

LeRoy Hutton, county clerk, said the election will be officially canvassed at the next meeting of commissioners court. One year must elapse before another election on the proposition can be held at county expense.

John Ciardi Speaks At WT

John Ciardi, poetry editor for "Satuday Review" and the writer of more than two dozen volumes of poetry, will speak on the campus of West Texas State University Oct. 18, according to Dr. John Green, chairman of the Faculty Special Programs Committee.

Dr. Green said that the Ciardi talk has been scheduled in place of one planned by the late writer and publisher Bennett Cerf, who died Aug. 27.

Ciardi's latest book of verse is titled "Lives of X." He recently published the third part of his verse translation of Dante' "Divine Comedy."

He has been poetry editor of "Saturday Review" since 1956 and is a former member of the faculties of Harvard and Rutgers Universities.

The son of Italian immigrant parents, he was graduated magna cum laude from Tufts University in 1938 and received his M.A. from the University of Michigan, in 1939.

During World War II he was a gunner in B-29 missions over Japan.

Senator Tower Predicts

Frost Follows Freeze

BY BENNY TURNER

Senator John Tower said Tuesday he thought that all American ground forces in Vietnam, with the exception of those necessary to protect vital installations and some residual air force and navy personnel, would be out of that country by June of 1972.

Tower was in Canyon Tuesday to speak to the ROTC students and later at a special Events Program at West Texas State University.

Tower, quoting another government official, said that he felt a frost would follow the 90-day wage-price-rent freeze. He said he felt that the freeze would be thawed, but that some controls would remain, possibly governed by a voluntary control board.

"I think that the people in this state as well as across the country overwhelmingly support the president's program," asserted. In a slap at Preston Smith he jokingly added, "Although there was some brief and short-lived opposition by a leader of our state."

When asked about Senator William Proxmire's proposal to limit price increases to one per cent a year and wage hikes to five per cent a year the senior senator curtly replied, "I rarely agree with Proxmire.

"I feel that George Meany will give the president cooperation if he feel that it is for the good of the labor unions, but I do not think that he represents the majority of the people he is supposed to.

Turning to Vietnam and the national defense Tower commented that we would be out of Vietnam by June of 1972, but they didn't think the monies that will be saved from Vietnam should be channeled into domestic programs.

"I think every dime saved from Vietnam should go into the defense budget. I think that the money should go into the research and production of our national defense," Tower commented.

"We desperately need to improve our defense posture," he said, "If we don't the Soviets will be ahead of us in two years.

"We are still ahead of the Soviets in our submarines

Birds Are Arriving At Wildlife Refuge

Fall can be no farther away than just around the corner as the migratory birds are returning to the Buffalo Lake Wildlife Refuge and as many as 600,000 birds are expected to be in the refuge at one time.

"Although we only have 1,500 ducks in the refuge at this time I feel like we are in much better shape than last year," refuge head Paul Ferguson said.

Ferguson said that there are about 480 acre-feet of water in Buffalo Lake and most of the area playas are full, which puts us in pretty good shape.

"Right now the only birds we have are the pintail, teal and the widgeon ducks. The mallards will begin arriving in late November and will become thick in mid-December to the first of January. In December is when we should have 500,000 to 600,000 ducks and geese at one time in the refuge.

"The area dryness should not affect us at all," Ferguson added." The refuge is a two-way stop for the birds, in the fall and in the spring. Last April the lake went completely dry and the birds still came. This fall we have water and it is not polluted in any way so I think it will be a good year."

The refuge, which was designated a santuary in 1959, plays a double role in its protection of wildlife. It serves as a hatchery.

"We had a quite successful hatching season," commented Ferguson. The Fish and Wildlife men banded more than 500 dove this year. They also hatched quite a number of quail.

"We have been seeing some deer and other forms of wildlife out here. During the upcoming hunting season I think that the refuge will serve its purpose in providing a rest stop and a haven for the birds and all the wildlife," Ferguson said.

Many area and distant campers sought the solitude and peace the refuge offers. The refuge provided sanctuary for approximately 550 of those campers.

Buffs Open Season Against MSU Tigers

BY BENNY TURNER

Questions without answers will surely follow the West Texas State Buffaloes to Memphis, Tenn. Saturday as they open their first season in the Missouri Valley Conference against one the projected strongest teams in that conference.

The Buffs are as yet untested as is their coach, Gene Mayfield. But the answers to many of the questions should be answered at the conclusion of the Saturday night tilt.

Memphis State, who has been picked by sportswriters as one of the top teams in the conference, has never lost a game to the Buffs. In their five previous tilts the WT gridders have never come closer than two touchdowns to the Tennessee school.

Speaking about the advantages of playing a powerhouse in the opening game of the season Coach Mayfield said, "We will get a quick comparison of our ballclub as compared to a strong MVC ballclub. We will get a quick diagnosis of our team and where they need the most work. With the inexperience in our offensive backfield and defensive secondary our boys could suffer a great loss of confidence.

"A loss of confidence is almost impossible to to overcome," Mayfield said.

Memphis will field a big

Eagles, Clovis In Tilt

The bright purple game jerseys and pants will be dragged out of the mothballs Friday to face a new season, a new coach and a new attitude when the Canyon High Eagles face Clovis in their first game at 8 p.m. Friday in Buffalo Bowl.

The Eagles, under the direction of new head coach, Ron Mills will run their offense from the I, the wishbone and the pro set formations under the adept quarterbacking of Chuck Wright.

Clovis has one of the best AAAA ball clubs in New Mexico," according to Mills.

After flu ripped the ranks of the Eagles last week and hindered their play in their scrimmage with Hereford, the Canyon gridders should be back at full strength by Friday.

The Clovis offense will set in an I formation with a slot back. To augment their formation the Clovis slot back and end both have been clocked at faster than 10.0 in the 100-yard dash. Their two running backs weigh 205 and 190 pounds.

"We know that Clovis will play toward our secondary, since that is where we are inexperienced. I do not think that they can run through our interior defensive line," Mills commented.

"With their tremendous speed I do not feel like we can cover them one on one basis either, so we will back off a little bit and do the best we can," Mills added.

The Clovis team can and probably use the airways ex-

Discipline, School Site Discussed

Student disciplinary problems and a new school site were discussed in executive session by the board Tuesday night after a regular session had been cancelled because the agenda had not been properly posted.

The new school site is linked to a proposed housing development in the north part of the school district which could bring an influx of students.

Information on disciplinary action was scanty but it was known that the board discussed use of drugs by students in the school system.

Board President Dudley Moore told trustees gathered in the school administrative office that they could not hold a regular meeting Tuesday night.

He said the agenda announced the meeting for Sept. 6 (Monday) while the county clerk's dating of the posting was Sept. 7. The law requires that the agenda of such a meeting be posted three days in advance.

Tuesday night's executive session was called under the law's provision for emergency meetings.

The school's attorney, Elton Cox, advised Dr. Moore that the executive meeting would be legal because drugs on campus constitute a threat to security.

The school budget was to have been discussed Tuesday. This was delayed until next Monday night.

FROM THE CANYON RIM

by Troy Martin

John Connally and Ralph Yarborough are the two unknown quantities in Texas politics today.

This column predicted last spring that Preston Smith would not stand for re-election as governor. Every straw in the wind tends to bolster this prediction.

Smith has appointed two of his most trusted aides, Larry Teaver and Bob Bullock, to high state offices. I think that had he intended to remain in office he would have kept both these men at his side.

I sensed the change in the governor's office last May.

Over the past three years I have had reason to call the governor's office on many occasions. Preston Smith has been the most accessible governor in the history of this state.

Whatever his critics may charge against him, they must concede that he has given the governor's office back to the people.

Last spring there was a change in attitude. The governor's aides were just as courteous but they did not seem quite as eager as before, not as prompt to return their calls.

It was then that I said Smith probably would not seek the office again. I haven't changed my mind.

No one is certain what Connally will do . . .which party he will choose next year. If he goes onto the Republican ticket or even openly supports Nixon, it could make a vast difference as to how the state would go. Connally is immensely popular and highly respected in his home state.

Ralph Yarborough is the old Curmudgeon of Texas politics.

He's going to run for office next year and you can count on that. It will be either for governor or senator and I doubt that he will take on curly headed Ben Barnes from Texas water melon country.

I think he'll go after John Tower's job. Although some say he hasn't had much of a test at the polls, Ben Barnes is the biggest vote getter in Texas history and even an old Pro like Ralph Yarborough would hesitate to take him on.

In the meantime, Yarborough is making speeches.

At Tyler last week end he lashed the Nixon administration for its economic policies and twisted the truth to accuse the Republicans of putting 14,000 General Dynamics workers out of work.

It has consistently been Ralph and his cohorts, Kennedy, McGovern and McCarthy who have advocated scrapping the space program, cutting back national defense and spending the money on welfare. His liberal pals in congress killed the SST project and dashed this country's hopes for staying abreast of the world in air transportation.

When Yarborough laid the cutback in aircraft professionals at the door of the Nixon administration in a speech at Tyler Monday before a labor group he was lying in his teeth and he knows it.

Ex-Students Slate Alumnae Banquet On WTSU Campus

The Distinguished Alumnae Banquet at West Texas State University will be held Oct. 22 on the campus, according to Hank Brown of the Ex-Students Association, which will sponsor the annual affair.

As part of the Homecoming activities which will be held that weekend, the association will also select nine new directors on Oct. 23. Brown noted that the association has 20 board members and nine will be replaced.

Members of the nominating committee will be Earl Witten of Bovina, Dwaine Miers of Amarillo and Leo Forrest of Tanglewood.

In other action Wednesday night at the board meeting, members agreed to sponsor a reception of staff and faculty members who retired from West Texas State University during 1971.

Tentative date for the reception is Dec. 1 in the Amarillo Club and will be cosponsored by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

The board also agreed to hire another secretary for the Ex-Students office in January, 1972.

4 Teachers Cited For Achievement

Four Canyon teachers have been named as Leaders of American Secondary Education for 1971, according to Jerry Jacobs, Supt. of Canyon Independent School District.

The four men were selected for national honors on the basis of their professional and civic achievements. They were nominated earlier this year by the school administrators.

Carroll Killingsworth, John Sommer, Herman Demus and Robert Green were cited for their exceptional service by Dr. V. Gilbert Beers, director of the Leaders of American Secondary Education program.

Guidelines for selection include an educator's talents in the classroom, contributions to research, administrative abilities, and civic service and professional recognition.

Monte Tillinghast, 8, and Lonnie Tillinghast, 6, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tillinghast of 2625 13th Ave., accompanied their parents on a float trip in an 18-foot raft down the rapids in the Grand Canyon recently. The two may have been the first children to ever have made the trip, their mother said. They are shown with some velvet ants brought back from the Canyon which Mrs. Tillinghast plans to show in her kindergarten classes.

Our World

BY ANN BROWN

Tension, anxiety, and fatigue are plagues stalking the "Land of the Free." Why did the Pilgrims leave home, family, and friends, and brave a hazardous ocean in a frequently futile attempt to survive in an uncharted wilderness? To be free from oppressive laws.

The Four Freedoms guaranteed in the first amendment to the Constitution were an attempt of the founding fathers to prohibit the unbearable oppressions from following the pioneers to the new world.

A nation seldom loses its liberty by a single act, but by a process of erosion.

American freedoms have eroded rapidly since the New Deal started the disintegration in 1933. Many of our oppressions are greater than the ones our ancestors fled more than 300 years ago.

The Declaration of Independence clearly states man is endowed by his creator with the inalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. And "to secure these rights, government are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

Americans are writhing underoppressive laws opposed by the vast majority of the governed.

Why should we criticize the peoples of Nazi Germany, Russia, and Red China for tolerating barbarous governments? What are we doing about ours?

Polls on busing school children away from neighborhood schools for the purpose of race mixing have shown from 70 to 90% of Americans of all races bitterly oppose the policy. Is that "the consent of the governed?"

Our newest crop of lawmakers has burdened us with laws so idiotic as to defy belief. The frustration — to say nothing of the financial burden — created by the latest voter registration rule is typical. Did the "governed" consent to that?

Our legal "sages" really opened Pandora's Box with their latest rule on labor safety. According to this government edict — which must be posted where all employees can read it — anyone who becomes ill or injured because of hazardous environment on the job can sue his employer.

And once the employee sues for environmental damages, he cannot be discharged. A few wise employers are beating them to the draw. Who will welfare recipients sue?

The bookkeeping this latest boondoggle demands will break many a small business man financially, to say nothing of his nerves.

Is there a place on land, sea, or in the air that is free from hazards? According to official statistics, home is the most dangerous place.

The New Deal revised the Four Freedoms. The last two in the Constitution were changed to freedoms from want and fear. And that change has produced a fifth freedom for many people; the freedom from responsibility.

But every human being involves responsibility. If he does not assume his own, someone else must bear his burdens. Inmates of prison, hospitals, and insane asylums may escape want, fear, and responsibility, but they do so at the expense of others.

If oppressive government edicts and taxation are allowed to continue unchecked, the resulting tensions and anxieties will deplete productive Americans until there may not be enough left on the outside of institutions to take care of the ones on the inside.

We are indignant that children find their "speed" in parental medicine cabinets; what about some indignation over the pressures that caused the parents to need it?

Why not elect legislators who promise to abstain from passing new laws, and busy themselves repealing the oppressive ones we already have? Who will campaign on that platform?

Umbarger News

BY SUSAN DOLLE

Nearly everyone can recognize the ordinary crops grown in the fields of the Panhandle as they drive by in cars. But here's a new one for you — mung beans. A few farmers including Wieck of this community have contracted with Continental Grain Co. to grow mung beans on an experimental basis. Use of the mung bean is for Chinese food.

Looking like the green bean plant, the mung bean produces a cluster of 5 pods arranged in a star pattern at the top of the plant.

Mr. Wieck says that the plant does not grow close to the ground; right now they are about five inches off the ground. Harvesting with a combine should therefore be relatively easy.

Other farmers include the White Farms, Carl Kleuskens, and Dick Golden, all near Dawn. Mr. Wieck said he irrigated the crop up but has not watered since. In addition, the field of beans will have been used for two other crops within a year. Cattle were taken off the wheat around July 1, the field was plowed and two days later the beans were planted and being watered. Before the beans are harvested around Oct. 10, the field will again be planted with wheat seed scattered by a plane. Mr. Wieck expects that the wheat will be up before the beans are harvested.

If the mung bean proves to be an efficient crop, plans are in the making for a facility in Hereford which would accommodate 10,000 acres of beans. After harvesting the beans are allowed to sprout, and the tasty sprouts are used for Chinese food and fresh salads.

Miss Conatser Wed To Jim Evans Stookey

Miss Connie Elaine Conatser and Jim Evans Stookey were wed in a ceremony Sept. 3 at Royal Lane Baptist Church in Dallas.

Rev. Richard L. Peacock officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack C. Conatser of Dallas. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Conatser and E.C. Prichard, all of Canyon.

Stookey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom J. Massey, Dallas.

The bridal attendants were Miss Sharon Elaine Jarmon, maid of honor, and Mrs. Milas Kennington, Miss Anne Lee Turney, and Miss Dede A. Allison, bridesmaids. The four were attired in orange bodices of Venise lace, topping softly fitted skirts of apricot chiffon. The bishop sleeves were also of apricot chiffon as were their flowered headdresses.

Miss Carole Lynn Stookey was junior bridesmaid and Miss Kelsie Lynn Conatser, flower girl.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk peau d'soie combined with peau d'ange lace. The crescent bodice featured a sheer yoke of French-tucked organza, a Victoria neckline and appliques of lace embroidered in seed pearls and aurora borealis crystals. Her bishop sleeves were cuffed in lace. The skirt was narrow. A bouffant chapel-length train was accented with lace medallions, and the chapel-length veil of English silk illusion was bordered in scalloped peau d'ange lace. It was attached to a Camelot bonnet of silk peau d'soie frosted with seed pearls and finished with a blush veil banded in lace.

Mrs. Jim Evans Stookey nee Connie Elaine Conatser

The best man was Keith William Houchen of Chicago. Groomsmen were Stephan Craig Smith, Wayne Robinson, and Richard Conatser. Marc Royal Stookey was junior groomsman and B. Kyle Conatser was ring bearer. All are from Dallas.

Ushers were Milas Kennington and Stan Kuhn.

The bride is a graduate of Thomas Jefferson High School in Dallas and attended the University of Texas at Arlington.

Stookey is a graduate of Thomas Jefferson and is attending North Texas State University in Denton.

The newlyweds will live in Dallas.

Comfort is...

Fresh, warm air gently circulating from floor to ceiling . . . down-to-earth dependability . . . easy-on-the-budget operating costs. Comfort is gas heating. There's no heat more comfortable.

And there's no heat cleaner than gas. Gas burns clean. It's one energy source that doesn't dirty the air.

Air-circulating gas heating systems also give you the first-half of a built-in gas air conditioning system. Adequate heat ducts can carry cool air to your whole house too – so you can add-on gas cooling right away or later if you prefer. Together, gas heating and gas cooling are an unbeatable combination for year 'round total comfort.

If you're building a home or planning to replace an out-dated heating system, choose thrifty gas heat. Check with your heating contractor.

Preservation Hall to Play Sept. 20

Jazz as performed by the men who first sounded its notes in the saloons, river boats and parades of New Orleans will be the fare when Preservation Hall Jazz Band performs Sept. 20 at West Texas State University.

The Billie and Dede Band, six-member ensemble from famed Preservation Hall in New Orleans, will appear under the aegis of the WTSU Special Programs Committee. Performance time is 8 p.m. in the Activities Center Ballroom.

Tickets are priced at $2 for adults and $1 for non-WTSU students. They go on sale Sept. 13 in the Activities Center office. WTSU students will be admitted free.

The six seasoned musicians are steeped in the New Orleans tradition in jazz. They are said to be among the pioneers who brought together funeral marches, quadrilles, blues, spirituals and ragtime to form the uniquely American art form of jazz.

Located in the heart of New Orleans' French Quarter, Preservation Hall has become a mecca for jazz enthusiasts and is also a school where aspiring musicians from all over the world come to learn jazz from those men who created it.

Built around 1750 as a private residence, Preservation Hall was a haven for over 50 years for down-and-out musicians who gathered there to play their music.

Now owned by Sandra and Allan Jaffe, the Hall is a showcase for the talents of those musicians who have added their names to such greats as Louis Armstrong, King Oliver, Freddy Keppard and Jelly Roll Morton in the Jazz Hall of Fame. The Hall still keeps the well-known wicker basket at the front door for band donations from the audience.

Preservation Hall jazz is said to be "free, spirited and original." The New Orleans sound started with the African tribal dances and sophisticated Creole quadrilles, and mingled with the music of New Orleans funeral processions, riverboat music and Mardi Gras parades.

It was originally polyphonic, with individual performers playing the parts for ensemble sound. Today, the emphasis is still on ensemble, with the cornet playing the melody, the clarinet on counterpoint and the trombone on harmony. The result is said to be "a clear simple statement that sings and laughs and cries and displays a freedom of spirit and a memory of parades, dances and the good life."

Boy Scout Troop 130 has been at it again. Recently this bunch of good guys left for a camp out at Monument Lake and North Lake, Colorado on the Pergatory River. They stayed there three days, doing the usual things boys do.

Then on Sunday they broke camp and started to the great and started back to the great Texas Panhandle. On the way back up around Texline and Dalhart they came upon a grass fire and they helped to beat it out with towels. It was theorized that the fire had been started by a hot box on the train. Thirteen miles out of the city, Scoutmaster Carl Johnson's truck broke down and the boys had to towed in by C.O. Hillman's pickup.

Saturday nite while up on cool Colorado the boys report that it hailed one inch deep, that is a lot of hail. It also rained most of one night and almost soaked them out.

Those going along for the great time were: David Clark, David, Kurt, and Allen Johnson, Terry Hayhurst, Dale Betty, Kenny and Jessie Johnson, Brian and Gregg Dodson, Randy Riley, and Bruce Kennedy. By the bye, while on the campout, Randy Riley and Kurt Johnson worked on obtaining their cooking merit badge.

A great big get well wish to all of our puney, but in particular to Frank Hanson, Harold Lovelady, Tom Engle, Betty Oglesby. Also, an extra big "Howdy" and get well wish to Little Kelly Mayfield who was accidentially hit by a car while riding on his bike this week. They rushed him to the emergency room of the hospital, but very fortunately he was only bunged up.

Happy Anniversary to Don and Raydelle Palmer who who will be celebrating their 22nd this week. Mercy, I told Raydelle, that's a long time to live with one man. She said "Yes, that's why I look like I do." (Pretty good milage if you ask me.)

Lots of people are a year older this week. Some we know about are into doing this Gene Howe Gazette, and Lancelot Link. We hope each of you will have many, many more Happy Birthdays.

And a Big Happy Anniversary to the Jerry Jacobs.

Congrats to those swift tennis players from West Texas State University — John Phillips and Paul Tobin — who walked off with the trophy in the doubles competition at the Tri-State Tennis Tournament held in Amarillo over Labor Day. Out of 33 entrees from West Texas, only these two finished. However John Phillips barely missed winning the singles trophy and it was a sheer delight to see him play

The Aubrey Arps really had an experience over last weekend. With all the notariety in the papers as of late regrading lost people, we almost got to add Aubrey's name. It seems as though the Arps along with the Bill Browns and the Kenneth Days motored up to Red River for some real serious motorcycle riding, among other things.

Unfortunately, the other things never did get to develop. The men decided to ride the cycles up to a sight where a plane had crashed in about 1942, which was approximately eight miles up the mountain. They left around 10:30 on Sat. morn, expecting to be back around 7 P.M. that eve. They didn't appear at 7 P.M. or all night. Finally Mrs. Brown took off and ran into her husband over close to Amalia and he gave her an account of their experience. He had gotten separated from the other men and had spent the nite alone.

The other men had walked up to where plane had crashed and there were four four Mexicans there, feeling no pain due to their consumption of firewater, who had aspirations of taking the plane apart to sell the aluminum.

So they stayed with the Mexicans with nothing to eat. The group reports it was really cold and the wind was blowing a gale. When it was all over they hired the Mexicans to bring horses and get the motorcycles out of the canyon.

By time the ordeal was over the State Police was looking for the men. The men were cold, tired, and hungry.

Mr. Brown says a big gray wolfe found him but he guessed he looked as hungry as the wolf and so the wolfe decided not to eat him. Mr. Brown fortunately had some matches and was able to build a fire on both sides of himself, but the other men didn't. Wanda Arp reports the moral of this story is to always carry some matches and to skirt the mountain (you motorcycle enthusiasts will know what that means.)

Borrowed: The tearful five year old was explaining to the department store manager that he was lost. "Why didn't you hold onto your mother's skirt?" the manager inquired. "Well, mister, the youngster replied, "It's because I can't reach it....pmh

Concert Campaign to Open Sunday Afternoon

The Canyon Community Concerts Association will seek 1971-72 memberships during a three-week campaign starting Sunday.

Former members may renew through Sept. 25. New memberships may be obtained Sept. 26-Oct. 2. Memberships, which entitle holders to attend the three Canyon programs and an unlimited number of programs in six other cities in the area, are $10 for adults and $5 for students.

Mrs. Joseph Findley of 300 10th St. is membership chairman and Miss Ruth Cross of 2504 6th Ave. is president.

Programs this season will include James Oliver Buswell IV, violinist, at 3 p.m. Oct. 31, and the Bel Canto Trio, singers, on Feb. 18. A third feature will be arranged after the membership drive. Programs are held at Canyon High School.

Each membership card entitles the holder to three punches — one punch per person per concert. The member may, for instance, take two guests to one concert and skip the others. The punches do not limit attendance at programs in the cooperating cities — Borger, Clovis, Dumas, Hereford, Lubbock and Plainview.

Buswell, a 25-year old native of Fort Wayne, Ind., has been violin soloist with the New York Philharmonic, the Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Boston, Milwaukee and Detroit symphonies and other major orchestras. He made his first public appearance at the age of 7. He plays a 1720 Stradivarius violin called L'Eveque.

When he made his New York recital debut on the tape. He and his wife, Sara, live in New York.

The Bel Canto Trio is made of Maria Novak, soprano, of Portland, Ore.; George Livings, tenor of Dallas; and Samuel Timberlake, baritone, of Auburn, Ala. All have appeared in opera or oratorio, and Miss Novak has given a number of German Lieder recitals. She and Timberlake were 1970 finalists in the Metropolitan Opera Auditions, and Livings has appeared with the Metropolitan Opera Studio and the Aspen Festival opera company.

Among programs arranged so far in the cooperating cities are:

Plainview — The Young Americans, singers and dancers, 8 p.m. Jan. 10; the Scots Guards, band, pipes, and dancers, 2:30 p.m. Feb. 27.

Lubbock — The Little Angels, national folk ballet of Korea, 3 p.m. Oct. 10; Regis Pasquier, violinist, 8 p.m. Nov. 23; the Berkshire Chamber Players, 8 p.m. Jan. 26; John McCollum, tenor, 8 p.m. March 1; Lili Kraus, pianist, 8 p.m. April 11.

Hereford — Stan Kenton, 3 p.m. April 23.

Clovis — The Little Angels, 8 p.m. Oct. 11; Glen Gael, a Scottish and Irish song group, 8 p.m. Jan. 29; Ozan Marsh, pianist, 8 p.m. April 4.

Great Performers at Philharmonic Hall Series, reviewers for both Newsweek and Time were enthusiastic. The Newsweek critic noted his "virtuoso technique" and Time's reviewer called his tone "luminous."

Buswell studied violin at Juilliard School of Music among other places. He graduated with honors last year from Harvard University, where he took a liberal arts course. He is a baseball fan, bowls and plays tennis, and has a collection of 30 complete operas on records

WTSU Nursing Program Tops Enrollment Predictions

West Texas State University's new baccalaureate program in nursing opened the fall semester with an unexpectedly large enrollment, Mrs. Eunice King, acting head of the Department of Nursing, said Saturday.

The four-year program leading to a bachelor's degree is a cooperative effort of the university and the Amarillo Hospital District.

Mrs. King said that 95 persons registered in the new program during the regular registration period ended Aug.28 and late registrations could bring the total to about 100.

She added that in 1970 there were 1,244 budgeted faculty positions vacant in schools of nursing in the United States.

At a recent Coordinating Board meeting on the campus of West Texas State, the board approved the appointment of Mrs. King to a 16-member advisory committee for its nursing education projection.

The committee will study the present status of nursing education in Texas and make recommendations to meet the changing needs in health care.

"When the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System approved the baccalaureate program for West Texas State last year, it was projected that 40 to 50 students would enroll the first year," Mrs. King said.

Ten of the students who enrolled were granted scholarships under the $20,000 appropriated by the 1971 Legislature to the university for such tuition grants.

The first nursing class included students from New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and 25 West Texas towns. Amarillo had 25 students and Canyon had five.

"A number of men enrolled in the program since nursing, traditionally a woman's field, is increasingly recognized as a most advantageous profession for men," Mrs. King said.

The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare has estimated that one million registered nurses (RN) will be needed by 1975, the year West Texas State's first class will be graduated.

Mrs. King said that critical shortages exist in the fields where baccalaureate preparation is required — nursing education, supervision, administration and clinical specialization.

Mrs. Money Cooks Hearty Meals

Mrs. Edel Money mixes up a rice dish for her family in her farm kitchen south of Canyon. Timmy, 2, supervises.

Mrs. Edel Money prepares hearty meals for an active family in a newly-decorated kitchen filled with harvest-gold appliances.

Married to a contractor of ranch fences who farms and ranches as well, Mrs. Money can count on healthy appetites when her family gathers at the table for meals which often include rice.

Favorite dishes include baked chicken and rice, hamburger and cabbage, porcupine meat balls and fried rice, she said. For dessert, she often bakes a German apple cake or dream bars, which she said, taste like pecan pie.

Mrs. Money is a soprano soloist for the Olsen Park Seventh Day Adventist Church in Amarillo, and spends much spare time making her own clothes.

Before her first child was born, she was medical records librarian at Neblett Memorial Hospital.

The children are Tammy, 10, Tommy, 7, and Timmy, nearly 3.

Much of her summer was spent in re-decorating their farm home south of Canyon. Shades of gold predominate in new carpeting, paper, and paint.

She began learning to cook when her mother died. Mrs. Money said she was proud to be able to prepare meals for her father. She grew up in Blaine County, Okla.

Family life for the Moneys is relaxed, built around the children, "who spent the summer on the trampoline," and their pets–a dog with puppies, a cat with kittens, and a cottontail rabbit raised this summer and about to be released.

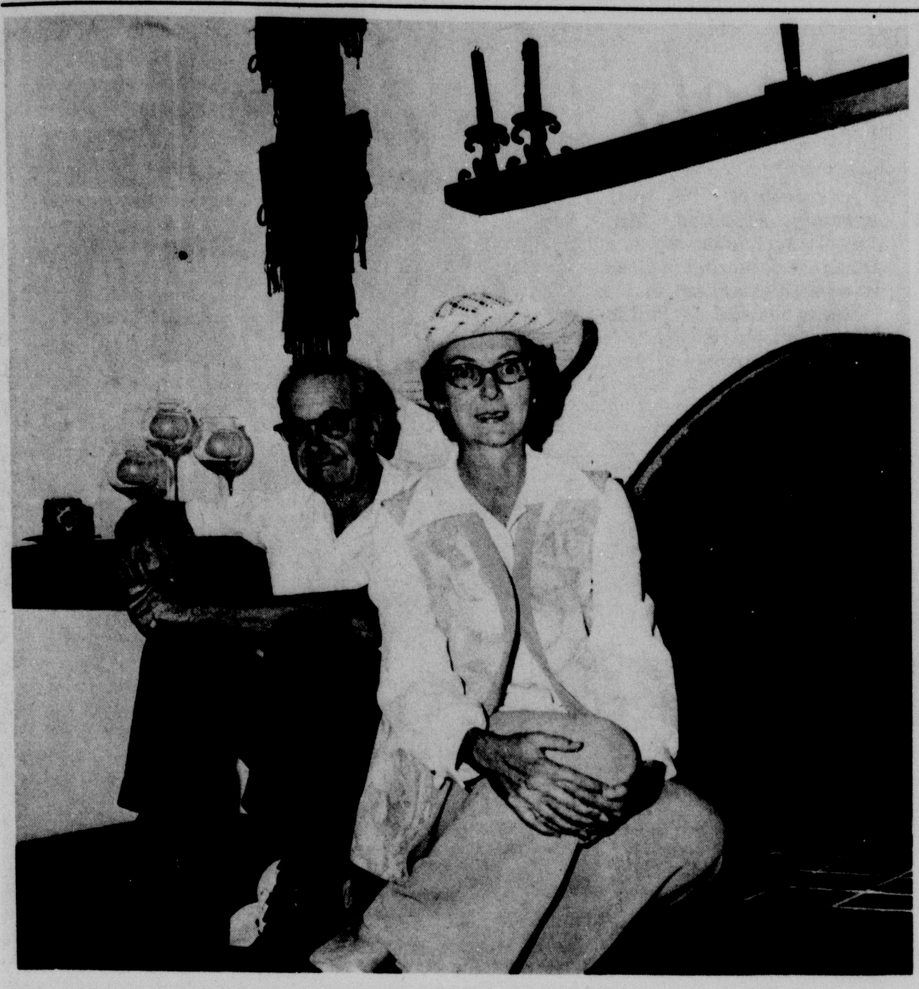
Elliotts Visit Mexican Excavation Sites



Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Elliott brought back the tile for their hearth from Yucatan on a previous trip to Mexico. Most trips net something for their home south of Canyon, but this year's purchase was Panama hats for two.

Mr. and Mrs. E.E. Elliott spent this year's trip to Mexico in search of ruins left by the Olmec people, believed by some to be the "mother culture" of Meso-America.

"We try to go to Mexico once a year, if only to Juarez," said Mrs. Elliott.

Their interest in the Olmecs began two years ago with an article in "Americas" magazine which pictured giant stone heads, each weighing tons, left by the Olmecs. The heads are believed to represent the leaders of the people.

The heads are from five to ten feet tall and made of basalt, which is not found in the jungle area of La Venta. Students believe they may have been floated down rivers during floodtimes.

Their travels included a search for the most famous of the Olmec sites, La Venta in the state of Tobasco, and a visit to the museum in Villahermosa, Tobasco's capital, where most of the La Venta finds are on display.

La Venta has been described as the most spectacular of the Olmec sites which have been excavated. It was a ceremonial center, built on an island away from the homes of the people.

The Elliotts inspected the stone heads found at La Venta, four of the 12 which have been found, and also saw the jade figurines found in burial sites and in caches containing representations of important rituals. In Villahermosa is a stylized mask of a jaguar god, a mosaic 15½ feet square composed of 486 squares of green serpentine set in yellow and orange sands. It, too, came from La Venta. Jade found at the site probable came from Guatamala, the Elliotts said.

The Elliotts also visited El Tajin where a site from the Totonac civilization has been excavated. The Totonacs had apparently left El Tajin by the time of the Spanish Conquest, since no mention of it is made in Spanish records.

In addition to the pyramid and other structures there, the travellers were able to witness the dance of "El Volador," performed by five men dressed as birds. Four of them jump from the top of a 40-meter pole, swinging from cables, and each revolves 13 times around the pole. The fifth, atop the pole, implores for fertility in the fields.

At Palenque, they visited the only Mayan pyramid yet found to contain a body. The others seemed to be ceremonial. A red vault cover protected a single skeleton and a collection of beautiful jade carvings, Mrs. Elliott said.

After this excavation, archaeologists will go back to the other Mayan pyramids and investigate them more completely, the Elliotts said.

The Mayans would build beautiful temples and then abandon them, for no apparent reason, and others, many years later would build again on the same site. In one place are three temples, one on top of the last. In most cases, the fine carvings are protected by flights of stairs on the outside of the structure.

At Palenque, their guide suggested that the cruelty of the priests caused the people to rebel and to move on to new homes. In the museums are many pictures of human sacrifice, the deforming of heads, the torture of prisoners, and other cruelties.

Scholars estimate that there are thousands of Mayan and pre-Mayan sites, so many that there are not even plans to excavate many of them.

The few true Mayans left have features very much like the huge Olmec heads, Mrs. Elliott said.

Of the archaeological sites, Elliott said, "These things are easy to reach, well-displayed. Accommodations and highways are just fine. You don't have to worry about getting lost in the jungle."

After Palenque, the Elliotts visited the folk festival at Oaxaca, where there were young people performing native dances in costume. "We're so lucky. We just wander into things like that," said Mrs. Elliott.

Elliott chuckled, "If you hang around any place in Mexico a few days, they'll have a fiesta — fireworks a parade, and all that."

Elliott is interested in ancient peoples, but much more in those who live in Mexico now. He lived in Mexico City for about three years in the late 'Fifties.

Neither of the Elliotts considers himself fluent in Spanish but, "We always manage to get along somehow," said Elliott.

His wife reminded him of the Spanish teacher who told Elliott, "You could be deported for Spanish like that."

There is a much more affluent middle class in Mexico than there was in 1953 when Elliott was first there, he said. Housing has improved and the old, big, junky cars have been replaced by smaller new ones assembled in the country.

"Even the gasoline has improved. You can get 100 octane now," added Mrs. Elliott.

More power lines are visible too, they said. No town seems to be without electricity and the pair saw grass-roofed houses with television antennae on them.

Prices are higher and it's not a cheap trip anymore, they said, though still less expensive than European travel.

Mexicans tour their own country now, which Mrs. Elliott described as "kind of a middle-class thing to do."

The Elliotts spent one night at Cocoyoc, just south of Mexico City. The tremendous old sugar hacienda was the home of hundreds of families until destroyed by revolution early in this century. It is now a resort hotel with stable, swimming pools, golf courses, a children's restaurant, and a playground.

Many of their stopping places were ancient buildings which had been restored and turned into hotels.

In Guanajuato, Elliott was delighted with the subway for cars under the city, which was created by diverting an underground river into old mining shafts in the mountains. The riverbed itself is now the road in a city without room for its traffic on the surface.

All residents of Randall County may obtain answers to questions on operation and interpretation of the Presidential order of Aug. 15 on prices, rents, wages and salaries from the Randall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office, according to Donald F. Lloyd, County Executive Director.

County ASCS offices throughout the United States have been chosen as information centers to answer questions on President Richard Nixon's Executive Order which is designed to stem inflation and strengthen the national enonomy.

The Randall County ASCS Office is receiving official answers to questions concerning the President's action, and any person in Randall County who wants or needs precise information should get in touch with the county office, Mr. Lloyd said.

"Neither will interpretations or guesses be made by ASCS county office people. We will answer only those questions for which we have been supplied answers. If we don't know the answer to a specific question, we will say so. If a member of the public wants the county office to obtain an answer, the question will go go by phone or mail to the nearest IRS district office," Mr. Lloyd said.

Normal function of ASCS county offices is to administer farm action programs of the U.S.

Smith Says Hire Student

Gov. Preston Smith has designated next week as Hire A Student Week in Texas and urges employers to "put an education to work" by hiring a student.

Due to higher costs brought on by inflation, students are having to seek part-time employment, Smith, said. Many of these young people are skilled or semi-skilled and are anxious to put their skills to use, he added.

"Many businessmen are able to convert part-time student workers into full-time, career employes upon graduation," the governor said.

Therefore, it is of mutual benefit to students, employers, and the State of Texas that they be brought together, he said.

strong club that has a great amount of depth. "The depth of their team could prove to be a factor late in the ball game," Mayfield commented.

The Tigers will utilize an I offense with a split backfield and up to three wide receivers, but "they run a predominately ground game," commented Mayfield.

"They will run the sprint out and their offense is geared so that the quarterback can run with the ball quite a bit."

"Spooky" Murphy is the head mentor of the Tigers and while at Memphis State he sports an 83-38-1 record.

"Murphy has been one of the winingest coaches in recent college football," Mayfield commented. "With this game he will open up against a relatively unknown ballclub (WTSU) and then will play a very strong team (Ole Miss) the following week. I am sure that it will be hard for him to get his boys up (mentally) for this ball game, but it is probably a good situation for them.

"They can see what they want to do with their team and where they need work," Mayfield asserted.

Mayfield was not completely pessimistic about the upcoming game however. "I am satisfied with our scrimmage (held last Friday night in Buffalo Bowl) because the boys showed that they are making some progress. When you are as inexperienced as our boys are all you can hope for is progress," he added.

Ed Holwig will be at the helm of the offense for the Buffs. He will be backed up by Billy Pritchett at tailback, George Crossman at fullback and Mike McCullough at right halfback.

Starting at tight end and popular receiver of Holwig, will be Aubrey Warren, while Daryl Wynn will start at the split end position. Joe Fiola and Willie Walker will start at the offensive tackle slots.

Greg McCoy and Tony Mullany will be at the guard positions and Jim Hankins will be the number one center.

The Memphis State offensive backs will be met by almost half a ton of flesh and muscle from the Buffs defensive front four.

At the defensive ends will be 217-pound Thomas Tate and 200-pound Walter Hibbler. Robert Jensen, a 245-pounder and 229-pound Manuel Gomez will play defensive tackles.

Willis Haws, Larry Matthews and Bill McKinney will be the starting linebackers for the '71 version of the Buffaloes.

tensively as well as play a ball control game, but the Eagles too can pass.

Wright, who is expected to be the starting Canyon QB has gone to the air on innumerable occasions in the Eagles two scrimmages. He will utilize the talents of ends Mike Podzemny and Fred Groana.

Backing Wright up is almost an equally gifted aerial artist, Mike Shadix. "Mike is the only player that we have that is injured at the moment," Mills commented.

"He has a badly bruised muscle, but this should hinder his play little if any by Friday."

Possible starters in the offensive backfield are Rick Edmondson, Bill Moore, Matt Henson and Cliff Prichard.

Interior linemen for the Eagles are at guards Larry Prichard and Bob Glisar, while Randal Smith and David Wilkinson will be the top tackles. Sammy Kerbal will start at center.

Groana will perform double duties for the Eagles as he will also be starting defensive end along with Roy Markum. Wilkinson and Glisar will go both ways and will serve as tackles on the defensive unit. Bill Moore, Larry Prichard and Van James will fill the linebacker posts.

"Van (James) is looking great. He was the best defensive man on the unit when we scrimmaged Hereford," Mills beamed. "Larry (Prichard) also had a real good offensive and defensive game against Hereford."

"Clovis is a potentially dangerous team from any place on the field," Mills stated. "With the type offense they run and the speed they have they could score at any time from any place. Their six men that fill the offense backfield and end spots can outrun any six of the Eagles at any time."

Game time is 8 p.m. at Buffalo Bowl.

and in our attack carriers, but they are making many more subs than we are and will soon catch up with us."

Speaking about the national elections in Vietnam, Tower said that he did not see anything wrong with just a single man being on the ticket for presidency. He continued by saying that the area people did not feel that they were not being given a fair choice when Congressman Bob Price of Amarillo did not have opponent in the 1970 elections.

"Some people who think that because the South Vietnamese government is not 'simon pure' that they are no better than Hanoi. This is a stupid and naive idea," Tower added.

The congressman said that we should not expect to see a mature government yet in South Vietnam. They just have not had the time or experience yet in self-government.

Reiterating his earlier stands on President Nixon's proposed trip to Red China Tower said, "I do not expect anything to come out of this trip.

The president is not trying to thaw the cold war with the Chinese, the only thaw there has been thus far has been between the respective ping pong teams." Tower continued saying that the president is simply trying to establish lines of communication with the 'de facto' government of communist China.

"I think the visit will be non-productive and will cause us (United States) to lose face in Asia," Tower stated.

The senator also expressed his doubt that the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks would prove fruitful.

"There are a few of us that can see past the face of the Kremlin. Yes, I feel like they (the Russians) are for some degree of the SALT talks, but only if it favors them and if we lay down for them. "I hope that we would not make a concession on the ABM (anti-ballistic missle).

"I do not know what is less provacative than a weapon that is designed to destroy other weapons rather than people, and that is what the ABM does."

Tower said that he supported the Lockheed Loan Guarantee because "what happened to this company was not their fault". He went on saying that it was the government's fault and the failure of Rolls Royce company of England who made the engines for the Lockheed airbus.

He said that he had originally favored a general loan guarantee of two billion for any major company that was in financial straits and if by its bankruptcy would adversley affect the national economy.

Tower further justified his voting for the Lockheed Loan guarantee by saying that "we haven't had a free enterprise system in this country in a long time — we have a capitalistic system."

The congress was to have convened at noon on Wednesday and that was Tower's next stop after visiting Canyon and WTSU.

government.

Barnes also vowed to use the governor's office to revamp the powerful conference committee which now is alsmost able to dictate to both houses the type of legislation upon which they will be allowed to act.

The lieutenant governor said he has tried repeatedly to reduce the power of the committee. "It has more power than the governor," he asserted.

He said he steered a reform bill through the House when he was speaker and had it killed by Preston Smith in the Senate. Smith as lieutenant governor presided over the Senate.

He related that when he became lieutenant governor he twice steered reform bills through the Senate only to have it killed in the House by Speaker Gus Mutscher.

Barnes has beeff the biggest vote getter in the history of Texas but does not concede that his popularity has been based on lack of adequate competition.

"I always have gotten out early and worked," he said. "I think I've worked hard enough to avoid real serious competition."

Barnes and his wife, Nancy, to whom he was married last month, spent the afternoon Sunday visiting in the Canyon area and then attended the drama, "They Came From Spain," Sunday night in the Panhandle Heritage Foundation Amphitheatre in Palo Duro Canyon.

Barnes was in Dumas Monday afternoon for the dedication of a hospital there.

Fulltime Enrollment Figures Up At University

Students attending West Texas State University this semester apparently are more inclined toward fulltime educational pursuits than parttime.

This was indicated in an analysis of enrollment figures for the fall semester which showed a tentative decrease of 535 students over a year ago.

Dr. Donald Cates, dean of admissions and registrar, said Wednesday the university had 7,370 paid students when late registration ended last Saturday.

The headcount enrollment for the fall semester of 1971 was 7,905. The headcount for a semester is determined after the 12th class day.

"An analysis of the registration data shows the university to be in a more stable position than the loss of headcount would at first indicate," Dr. Cates said.

"The information from students who chose not to enroll indicated that we would have a loss in parttime students taking one or two courses only, and this information is reflected in the enrollment data."

The 1971 Legislature raised resident tuition to a minimum of $50 per semester and non-resident rates for new students to $40 a semester credit hour.

For example, a parttime student last year would pay $15 for a three-hour course but under the new tuition he would pay $50 if a resident of Texas and $120 if a non-resident.

Despite the over-all loss, Dr. Cates said, the university had about the same number of fulltime students from the Texas Panhandle as last year.

"The returning non-resident fulltime students who were permitted to pay the old non-resident rate came back in about the same numbers as the past year," he added.

The 300 per cent increase in non-resident tuition for students coming to the university for the first time also figured in the loss, he said.

"The program areas which suffered most from the lack of parttime students were the non-degree seeking business administration students, parttime graduate students in business administration and parttime graduate students in the College of Education," Dr. Cates said.

He estimated that 85 per cent of the loss of students can be attributed to the tuition hike which discouraged parttime students.

That combined with the wage-price freeze which delayed some expected pay raises and earlier reports that teaching jobs were scarce were other factors that hit college enrollment hard.

Cranmers Attend Dairy Convention

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cranmer spent Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Chicago attending the convention of the Associated Milk Producers Inc.

The 45,000 who attended heard President Richard Nixon Friday evening, newsman Paul Harvey Saturday morning, and a number of senators and members of Congress.

Cranmer said that the convention was hailed as the largest ever held in the United States.

P. D. Rangers Win Wild Mare Ride

Three members of the Palo Duro Rangers took first place in the wild mare race at Claude Saturday night. The riders are Carroll Everett, Gene Moore, and Lynn Roberson.

The Rangers also rode in a parade at Claude Saturday afternoon, taking second place, and rode in the grand entry at performances of the Boys' Ranch Rodeo last weekend.

The group travelled from Claude to Boys' Ranch in a caravan of horse trailers and camped out Sunday night. During their stay at the ranch, they took part in three trail rides.

Motley Chairman of WT Fine Arts Group

Max Motley of Amarillo is the new chairman of the Friends of Fine Arts at West Texas State University.

Dr. John E. Green, dean of the WTSU School of Fine Arts, announced today the results of a recent mail ballot to elect officers and board members of the organization.

Other new officers are Mrs. Arley Barnett of Amarillo, secretary, and Aubrey Steele of Pampa and Mrs. Helene McFarland of Happy, members-at-large on the executive committee. Mrs. C.D. Wofford of Plainview was reelected vice-chairman.

Board members newly elected are Bill Davis of Canyon, Mrs. R.A. Johnson of Pampa and Mrs. Ralph Randel of Panhandle.

The Friends of Fine Arts was founded two years ago by Texas Panhandle persons interested in supporting and funding the activities of the School of Fine Arts. Membership has grown to 120 persons.

The Friends of Fine Arts is a non-profit group with the purpose of "keeping the School of Fine Arts abreast of the cultural needs of the area, lending support to the scholarship program, endowment fund and other activities, and keeping area citizens informed about fine arts programs at the university," Dr. Green said.

Among projects to be supported by the organization this year will be a Faculty Performance Series in which artist-faculty members in the School of Fine Arts will go out into the area for performances at various meetings, he said.

The organization will also provide financial support for the acquisition of an artist-in-residence at the university, who will spend a designated amount of time lecturing and doing seminars on the campus, he added.

The Friends of Fine Arts earlier this year donated $6,000 in scholarships to WTSU students in all fine arts fields.

Canyon Man Wins Contest

Weymon Brown, Canyon insuranceman, last week received a check for $500 from Reader's Digest which he won in a contest sponsored by that publication.

Brown said he always fills out the required blanks for the contest and drops it back in the mail.

He noted that he had been doing this for some time and was surprised when he received the check.

Two Added To WT Track Team

Two team members have been added to the WTSU cross country team, but a letterman has quit and a freshman suffered a leg sprain this week according to Coach Bob Kitchens.

Stanley Scott, an Andrews freshman and Renard Franklin, a Muleshoe freshman have been added to the squad. Robert Malphurs, a sophomore letterman, has quit the team.

Malphurs had turned in the best time of the year for the Buffs with a 22:09 clocking in the four mile run.

Steve Crisp stepped into a chug hole Wednesday while working out and suffered a leg sprain. Crisp could be out of the lineup for two to three weeks. "Crisp was looking real good before his injury," Kitchens said.

"As a whole, I'd say this is the best cross country team we've had since I have been here," Kitchens commented. Jim Hogan is our top runner. He is looking very strong this year. He is very strong mentally and that is at least 90 per cent of cross country, just thinking that you can do it," Kitchens added. "Hogan stands to have a real fine year."

Bisher Rites Held in Ohio

Funeral services were conducted for M. Samuel Bisher, 77, Monday in Columbus, Ohio.

Bisher was a former Canyon resident, who was engaged in the automobile business here.

He died in Columbus on Saturday.
